SALZBURG

Up until 1816, Salzburg led a separate life to the rest of Austria, existing as an independent city-state ruled by a sequence of powerful prince-archbishops. An ambitious and cultured bunch, they turned the city into the most Italianate city north of the Alps. Spread out below the brooding presence of the Hohensalzburg fortress, the churches, squares and alleyways of the compact Altstadt today recollect a long-disappeared Europe. For many, Salzburg is the quintessential Austria, offering the best of the country's Baroque architecture, subalpine scenery and a musical heritage largely provided by the city's most famous son, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, whose bright-eyed visage peers from every box of the ubiquitous chocolate delicacy, the Mozartkugel. Salzburg's captivation with Mozart is perhaps best reflected in the world-famous Salzburg Festival, a five-week celebration of opera, orchestral music and theatre that begins in late July, although there's a wide range of (not always Mozart-related) musical events on offer throughout the year. Souvenirs recalling the Salzburg-based musical. Salzburg is buzzing twelve months a year and there's not really a best time at which to come. Spring and summer bring a wealth of colour to the city's parks and the surrounding hills, and this period draws the biggest tourist crowds, although the Advent season (from the end of November through to Christmas) is an atmospheric and increasingly popular period. There's a Christkindlmarkt (Christmas market) in the square outside the cathedral, with stalls selling all kinds of handicrafts alongside irredeemable tat, and ad-hoc kiosks doling out sausage, Schmalzbrot (bread and dripping) and gallons of Gluhwein, bringing an outdoor party atmosphere to the winter evenings

Sights: Castle Hohensalzburg, St. Peter's Cathedral, Mozart's birthplace, Castle Hellbrunn, Residenz, Mirabell Castle and much more.

Concerts: Palace Concerts Hohensalzburg, Mozart Serenades, Mozart Dinner Concerts, Marionette-Theatre, Landestheatre, Culture days, Easter Festival, Summer Festival.

GRAZ

Graz is a particularly fine example of a central European urban complex which experienced many centuries of Habsburg rule. The old city is a harmonious blend of the architectural styles and artistic movements that have succeeded each other since the Middle Ages, together with cultural influences from the neighbouring regions. Although Graz is the second largest city in Austria with approximately 270000 inhabitants, it is still homely, green and fairly provincial, say some. The historic centre of the city of Graz reflects artistic and architectural movements originating from the Germanic region, the Balkans, and the Mediterranean, for which it served as a crossroads for centuries. The greatest architects and artists of these different regions expressed themselves forcefully here and thus created brilliant syntheses. The city has culture, three universities and a lively bar scene, say others. In fact, both are right: Graz is bourgeois and cosmopolitan, idyllic and full of life, traditional and avant-garde.

Hotel WIESLER, Deluxe Collection, centrally located. The grande dame of the hotels in Graz impresses their visitors with its style and ambience. The hotel presides at the riverside of the Mur right in the city centre of Graz. Truly grand are also the 97 noble and very exclusive rooms and suites. The Grand Salon and its art nouveau mosaic designed by Leopold Forstner is without doubt one of the most elegant places in the city. The timeless flair of the rooms together with the culinary delights from the region served in the restaurant "Im Wiesler" make a stay at the hotel complete.

Rooms: 97 large, bright rooms, cable- and pay-TV, telephone, minibar, hairdryer. Business floor rooms with personal fax machine, outlet for PC plug, safe and trousers press.

LINZ

Not only the third biggest city of Austria but also one of the most interesting places to be. Embedded in the picturesque Danube Valley and surrounded by green rolling hills this city has a very special flair. While here, you really should go for a stroll through the old town with its picturesque houses. You can see the castle of Linz high above the town and the oldest church of Austria, the Martinskirche church, which is around 1,200 years old. The location of Linz on the Danube and on the salt road, which ran from the Salzkammergut to Bohemia, helped the city to become the number one trading place for salt; today this vibrant city is well known as center for trade and industry and for education as well. More than 50% of the city's area is covered with parks and green spaces and it is in Linz where you find the largest Danube port of Austria. Linz hosts the magnificent international Bruckner Festival, which is a must see event for culture lovers. This festival is together with the Ars Electronica just one of the many cultural highlights waiting for you.

ISCHGL

About 1600 inhabitants live in the Tyrolean village. One of the snow-richest areas of Tyrol. Ischgl was a typical mountain farming town until well into the 1950s, when it created perfect conditions for the development of tourism, by opening the first cable car in 1963. With a capacity of around 9800 beds and 45 ski lifts in total, Ischgl is now among the most popular and important tourist resorts of Europe.

The Silvretta Ski Arena, a paradise for skiers and snowboarders alike, connects Ischgl and the Swiss duty-free zone of Samnaun via 45 ski lift and cable car facilities and approx. 200 km of well-groomed pistes. The main skiing area (90%) lies between 2000 and 2872 m - you can ski from the end of November to the beginning of May, due to its snowy north slopes.

Ischgl has a permanent, generally accessible half-pipe for snowboarders, as well as a "Boarders' Paradise", with four areas and 30 obstacles. Carving freaks enjoy their own carving course (chair-lift Idjoch). The centre of the Silvretta Ski Arena is the Idalp at 2311m sea level. There you'll find 2 restaurants, the skiing school meeting place and the ski and guest kindergarten.

The Silvretta cross-country track connects Ischgl with Galtür and goes on to the high-altitude track. There are 48 km of tracks altogether, for all levels. Twice a week there's a tobogganing evening on one of the longest flood-lit natural toboggan runs in the Apls (7 km, total difference in elevation: 950 m). NEW: Flying Fox
